

ABSTRACT

A system and method for multicasting an event of interest, the method includes detecting an occurrence of an event of interest within a received media stream; and multicasting the event of interest within one or more media stream of interest.